Participate in the Republican National Convention via Facebook

For the first time ever, the Republican National Convention has decided to bring the Convention to you using the power of Facebook and Google with its Convention without Walls program.

According to a recent release from NFRW Republican women are urged to “get involved and tell your story by signing up for the Convention without Walls Facebook app...” To get started, sign into Facebook using your Facebook Login information and go to Convention Without Walls.

You can instantly start telling your story, connecting with people who share your interests and views and get behind the scenes Convention updates. Since the Convention is doing things a bit different this year, you also will have access to a unique view of the Republican National Convention during the week of the Convention, August 27 - August 31.

This will include tools to help you organize and promote Convention watch parties; view and share live streaming video from the Convention floor; and an opportunity to connect with actual attendees and delegates.

Republican women are encouraged to not just watch the convention coverage on TV this year but to take part in it by signing up for Convention without Walls. Several PFRW members were elected to be delegates or alternates to the Republican National Convention which will be held in Tampa, Florida.
